7 Dimensions

In order to interpret your scores, please refer to the seven bars. You will find the names of the 7 dimensions at each end of the bars. Your score is positioned to the right of the bar. The closer your score is to one extreme or the other, the more your orientation resembles that extreme of the dimension.

For example: if your score is more towards the bottom of the second dimension bar (individualism-communitarianism), you have a more communitarian orientation. The dimension 'time' consists of three different zones: past, present, future. The bigger the zone, the more important it is to you.

Corporate culture

The four quadrants represent the four different types of corporate culture we distinguish. The solid lines indicate how you view the current situation in your organization. The dotted lines show your opinion about the ideal situation. The bigger the quadrant the more you adhere to that type of corporate culture.
